MinsterBank

Protect your identity!

Community Shred Day set for April 12

Do you want to safely dispose of sensitive papers such as bank statements; credit cards and application forms; pay stubs; old bills; tax documents; medical records; floppy disks; CDs; DVDs or other documents that might make you a victim of identity fraud? Private information isn't limited to bank statements and business contracts. Printed confidential materials are produced daily in every business and home and by every person—from medical records to strategic planning documents.

Minster Bank and Shred-it[®], the world's leading on site document destruction company are sponsoring a free Community Shred Day on April 12, 2008, 10 a.m.-1 p.m. to safely dispose of these sensitive materials. The event will be held at the Troy office of Minster Bank, 1280 Experiment Farm Rd., Troy.

Community Shred Day is free and up to 5 bags of paper will be accepted. Binders, staples and paper clips do not have to be removed. When papers are dropped off at site, you do not have to leave your car, Shred-it[®] staff will remove the papers and shred them while you watch. The paper is then recycled.

As the fastest-growing form of fraud, identity theft and corporate espionage threatens to destroy personal credit ratings as well as a person's reputation and security. Governments and regulators around the world continue to develop legislation to help protect individuals and businesses. Prevention is the best solution—once the documents are shredded; they cannot be reassembled.
